How Halsey and Kinkaid Outsurprised Jap Navy

By CHARLES H. McMURTRY

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, Oct. 27 (AP)—A powerful Japanese carrier force bearing down from Formosa to surprise American invasion troops and warships in the Philippines was itself surprised by alert U. S. carrier planes, and thus received a stinging initial setback.

The American aircraft spotted the carriers, part of a three-way Japanese naval stab, and roared in with such ferocity the enemy could put up only weak defense.

Thus the vital element of surprise worked in reverse for the Japanese in this week's historic naval and air engagement.

This is how the battle developed:

The Japanese sent three naval task forces converging on Adm. Halsey's Third Fleet, lying east of the Philippines, and on Vice Adm. Kinkaid's Seventh Fleet, covering Gen. MacArthur's Leyte invasion.

All three were sighted Monday. A submarine made first contact Monday morning, reporting that four battleships, 10 cruisers and about 13 destroyers were moving northeast through the south China sea.

This fleet, probably from Singapore, continued a course along Palawan island, turned through Mindoro strait into the Sibuyan sea and headed southeast toward Leyte.

Planes, presumably from Adm. Kinkaid's escort carriers, discovered a smaller Jap force Monday afternoon steaming northeast through the Sulu sea toward Leyte.

This consisted of two battleships, one cruiser and four destroyers. They may have been from Singapore or may have been detached from the imperial task force which two weeks ago refused to meet Halsey's force off Formosa. This group eventually reached Leyte gulf before it turned back.

The third armada was a carrier task force comprising the bulk of the imperial fleet, including at least three carriers, four battleships, five or six cruisers and possibly 15 destroyers moving south of Formosa.

Adm. Halsey ordered full speed toward this Formosa carrier force. Meantime, he detached a strong carrier force from his mighty armada to speed west and engage the Japanese battleship units from the Sibuyan sea.

Both Japanese battleship forces were attacked repeatedly Monday afternoon by planes from Adm. Kinkaid's escort carriers. In the larger northern force from the Sibuyan sea, U. S. pilots damaged all four battleships with bombs and torpedoed one battleship and one cruiser. In the Sulu sea force, they bombed battleships and strafed severely all lighter units.

Despite damage, both enemy battleship forces continued toward Leyte with suicidal desperation—and a suicidal move it became.

The Sibuyan sea battleship force steamed through San Bernardino strait between Luzon and

Japs Gamble Into Disaster

PEARL HARBOR, Oct. 27 (AP)—A Japanese naval disaster, threatening momentarily to surpass Nippon's 35-warship tragedy of 1942 off Guadalcanal, stemmed today from an amazing gamble which actually succeeded in getting enemy warships perilously close to America's invasion beaches on Leyte.

The confirmed sinking or damaging of 27 warships, including three carriers and 10 battleships, in a trio of naval air encounters off the Philippines, tells a far from completed story.

Remnants of the once proud imperial fleet which, it now can be disclosed, actually penetrated Leyte gulf and attacked transports engaged in Gen. MacArthur's landings, still were under relentless air pursuit.

Today, V. Adm. Kinkaid, whose outnumbered Seventh fleet turned the tide from threatened disaster into history-making triumph in Leyte gulf, told Dean Schedler, Associated Press war correspondent, that the Japanese risked from 39 to 46 warships in the two battles near Leyte and only 20 retired.

That general summary suggested from 19 to 26 enemy ships were bagged, although it did not differentiate between sunk and damaged. But the 20 which got away were pursued by planes and, doubtless, as yet undisclosed damage was heaped on them.

MacArthur-Nimitz communiques on the two battles near Leyte, plus a flagship dispatch from R. Adm. Daniel Barby, listed 14 enemy warships confirmed as sunk or damaged in those two battles.

Eight of the 14—two battleships, three cruisers and three destroyers—were sunk. Four battleships, a cruiser and a destroyer were damaged.

Twelve more of the 27 confirmations have come as incompleted reports on Halsey's powerhouse air blows dealt south of Formosa. It is known that two enemy carriers and two cruisers were sunk, a large carrier and two battleships probably sunk, two battleships and three cruisers damaged. Still to be added to the confirmations are several destroyers damaged.

The 27th confirmation was a light cruiser hit by Liberators in the Mindanao sea, a sector through which one segment of the Japanese fleet naturally would flee after being forced back through Surigao Strait. This was the fleet group which approached Leyte from the southeast and actually penetrated the gulf.

Kinkaid's estimate of perhaps 46 enemy warships sent into action through narrow straits of the Philippines was added to the known 12 sent south of Formosa. That means at least 58 enemy warships were committed by Japan in its great gamble to break up the Philippines invasion.

The American losses acknowledged were in striking contrast with those inflicted on the enemy. A light American carrier, the 10,000-ton Princeton, and an escort carrier went down. An undisclosed number of patrol torpedo boats were lost. Several escort carriers and destroyers were damaged.

BULLETIN

LONDON, Oct. 27 (INS)—The Japanese fleet has regrouped its forces in expectation of a second offensive in the Philippine area of the Pacific, the Tokyo radio asserted today.

TIGHTENING THE NOOSE—Philippine victories have greatly extended the U. S. control of the Pacific and brought the war much closer to Nippon's shores. Comparison of solid with broken lines show the American advance, from the peak of the Japanese power in the Pacific, to the Yank landings on Leyte with our ensuing naval victories. Marcus and Wake Islands have been by-passed by the swift-moving U. S. Pacific Forces, as have Yap and Truk, all of which are now isolated from their supply bases.

Stilwell Fliers Hit Jap Warships

CHUNGKING, Oct. 27 (INS)—A successful attack by China-based American Liberator bombers on remnants of a battered Japanese task force fleeing from the battle of the Philippines, involving the probable sinking of 8800 more tons of Jap shipping and damaging of 12,000 additional tons, was reported officially today.

Headquarters of Gen. Stilwell said Liberators of the 14th Air Force struck yesterday at the remnants of the Jap task forces fleeing in the South China sea eastward of the Liuchow peninsula.

Two direct hits were scored on a Jap transport and another direct hit left a freighter listing and burning.

Allies Hold New Holland Attack

By WILLIAM FRYE

LONDON, Oct. 27 (AP)—Field Marshal Von Model's Germans counter-attacked along a 10-mile front against the eastern side of the British salient in Holland today after a heavy artillery barrage.

The attack, which spread from the Dutch town of Venlo on the German border south to Roermond, in a sector last reported held by American armor, ran into a wall of fire and steel.

Canadian forces, fighting on both sides of the Schelde in westward advances to open Antwerp, were reinforced by British troops who landed on South Beveland island and established a seven-square-mile beachhead.

The Canadians, completing their drive down the two-mile wide, 10-mile long neck of land connecting the mainland with the island, reached the South Beveland canal which cuts across the neck.

The British, after a 15-mile westward drive in five days from their Nijmegen salient, had hemmed the Germans into a collapsing box

The Germans moved headquarters from Tilburg to north of the Maas, and today's Allied communique said the enemy had been forced to withdraw "all along the line" from Roosendaal to Tilburg.

Continued pressure, but not significant progress, was reported along the remainder of the west front.

Northeast of Luneville the Germans were cleared out of the Moncourt forest and the high ground to the north.

Yanks Racing on Across Leyte

By MURLIN SPENCER

MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Oct. 27 (AP)—Fast-moving American doughboys have carved out a solid 40-mile-long invasion front on Leyte island and have surged deeper inland to free an additional 15 communities, a communique reported today.

The general advance continued, despite increased Japanese resistance west of Palo, in the north-central sector, and a counterattack which was repulsed on Samar island.

American guns and planes bagged 76 Japanese aircraft during intermittent harassing raids on the invasion armada.

The Americans secured control of Leyte's eastern coast, from the northern tip of Dulag, when the 10th and 24th Army Corps joined forces.

Simultaneously, the southern end of the Leyte valley trap was being closed tighter by tank-led doughboys who captured two key towns in a double-pronged drive that overran several communities off the main highways.

Buri, previously bypassed because of its strong defenses, was captured after severe fighting by 7th division forces punching up the valley's north-south highway.

The 96th division, pushing inland from the coast toward Dagami, captured Tabontabon, a river town eastward.

The 24th division, attempting to close the northern end of the Leyte trap, encountered increasing Japanese opposition in its advance westward from Palo.

FIRST LADY HERE FOR TALK AT SIMMONS

Women of America have a vital role in helping returning servicemen in their emotional readjustment from the horrors of war to the calm of peacetime in the postwar period, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt declared today in a press conference at Hotel Statler.

Arriving in Boston to be a luncheon guest at Simmons College, the First Lady asserted that instead of women being tolerant of returning troops, she hoped that the veterans would be tolerant of women.

"I urge that they be tolerant of us and that we women understand things which are difficult for us to grasp," she said. "That is the only way in which we can understand their difficulties for it's certain that they are going to be at times hard for us to understand.

"These men are coming back to us, tired in a way that few of us can realize. It's a deep sort of tiredness, the kind that has made some that I know unwilling even to see their friends. Yet, some women fail to understand their desire to be alone and rest and press them with 'Let's go out and have a good time.'

"I don't expect our men will be hardened by their shattering experiences," she said. "Some, of course, would be hardened anyway.

"They say of their enemies that they will fight them but they can't stand seeing enemy women and children suffer."

After her Simmons engagement, Mrs. Roosevelt plans to visit her grandsons at a nearby private school and expects to be back in New York Sunday evening and return to Washington Monday.

Mrs. Roosevelt arrived at the South Station aboard the Owl from New York at 6:45 a. m. with a Boston American reporter as her only greeter.

Poland Only 'Big 3' Snag ---Churchill

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

LONDON, Oct. 27 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill told Commons today "a very good working agreement" had been reached with Russia on the problems of southeast Europe, but acknowledged his efforts to end the Russian-Polish dispute, prime objective of his mission to Moscow, had not proved successful.

Churchill said he and President Roosevelt should confer with Marshal Stalin before the year ends. But he declared "all is solid, sure and sound" among the three Allies.

"I am quite sure," he said, "that no final result can be obtained until the heads of the three governments have met together, as I earnestly trust they may do before this year is out.

"At Quebec the President and I felt very much the absence of Russia. At Moscow, Marshal Stalin and I were deeply conscious that the President was not with us although in this case the American observer, Mr. Averell Harriman, the accomplished ambassador of the United States, made us feel at all times the presence of the great Republic."

In one of the shortest reports he has ever made after a major conference, Churchill spoke only about 30 minutes.

He touched but briefly on the military situation.

Asserting "we are in the last lap" of the European war, Churchill declared:

"Let all hope die in German breasts that there will be the slightest division or weakening among the forces that are crowding in upon them and will crush the life out of their resistance."

While he said recognition of the French provisional government heralded return of France to "her rightful and historic role on the world stage," Churchill declared the future of the world in the next few years depends upon united action by the United States, Russia and Britain.

"Other countries," he said, "will be associated, but the future depends on the union of the three most powerful Allies. If that fails all fails; if that succeeds a bright future for all nations may be assured."

Of the long dispute between Russia and Poland he said:

"I am quite sure we have got a great deal nearer to a solution."

He said Britain, Russia and the United States "are all firmly agreed on the recreation of a strong, free, independent, sovereign Poland, loyal to the Allies and friendly to her great neighbor and liberator, Russia."

He expressed the hope Poland and Russia would lose no time in resuming discussions "and bringing them to an effective conclusion."

The Prime Minister declared the "present stage of war is dour and hard and the fighting must be expected on all fronts to increase in scale and intensity."

"We believe we are on the last lap," he asserted, "but this is a race in which failure to exert the fullest effort to the end may protract that end."

He bluntly told Commons that Hitler is pinning his hopes for winning the war on these two factors: "That by lengthening the struggle he may wear down our resolution, and that division may arise between the three great powers."

Of his visit to Moscow, he said

RED GUNNERS NIP THRUST IN EAST PRUSSIA

By DANIEL DE LUCE

MOSCOW, Oct. 27 (AP)—Heavy counter-attacks by German armor and infantry against the growing Russian salient in East Prussia were beaten back today by Red gunners who levelled their field artillery into a deadly anti-tank screen.

Despite the enemy's continual reinforcement, Gen. Cherniakhovsky wrested control of a 13-mile stretch on the secondary rail line which runs northwest to Tilsit from the junction on the main Konigsberg-Kaunas line, near Stallupoenen.

Frontline dispatches said: "Dozens f new German batteries" were introduced in an effort to contain Russian thrusts aimed at Gumbinnen.

Against one side of the Russian bulge the enemy launched five consecutive attacks employing as many as two battalions of infantry each time, supported by Panther tanks and self-propelled guns. They were broken up with heavy German losses.

Red troops have not yet completely traversed the zone of concrete and steel fortifications the Germans for years have been building to protect the home of junkerdom.

Theft Suspect Taken in Fight

Sought for the theft of clothing from the home of a neighbor, William Crowley, 35, of Winthrop st., Roxbury, leaped through a bedroom window of his home today and then battled pursuing police until felled by a nightstick.

Suffering from scalp lacerations, he was taken to City Hospital, where a police guard was placed at his bedside.

A warrant charging Crowley with larceny was issued in Roxbury court and police expected to arraign him tomorrow if his condition permits.

The trouble started when two officers went to his home to question him about the alleged theft. He raced to a rear bedroom and hopped out a window to the ground, 10 feet below.

Patrolman William Chamberlain gave chase but was warded off when Crowley picked up a mop and began beating the policeman. Patrolman William Cameron, who had gone out the front door to head off the fleeing man, came to the rescue and dropped Crowley with one blow of his club.

Police said they recovered a fur coat and dress worth $165 which allegedly were taken from the adjoining home of Miss Mae Pratt, 38. The latter called in police to report her home had been robbed and that she was certain her things had been taken by a man next door.

Officers were greeted at the Crowley home by the suspect's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Crowley. Almost before they were able to make inquiries they heard Crowley running down a hallway, and Chamberlain followed swiftly.

Dual Klan Role Laid to Truman

By DAVID SENTNER AND GEORGE SCHENDEL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27—How Harry S. Truman, Democratic vice-presidential candidate, joined the Ku Klux Klan—and then had a friend square him with his fellow klansman, is recorded in a letter written by the man who allegedly prevented the klan from rolling Truman.

Truman's membership and activities in the Ku Klux Klan in Missouri—including his role as a principal speaker at a big rally of klansmen in Crandall's pasture in the shadow of a fiery cross—is attested to in sworn affidavits by the cyclops of the klan unit to which he allegedly belonged and by other former high klan officers.

In separate witnessed statements before reporters for the Hearst newspapers, these ex-klansmen pictured Truman as having tried to "carry water on both shoulders" in bidding for the political support of the klan at the time he was first a candidate for county judge of Jackson County in 1922.

They affirmed that Truman, sponsored by Tom Pendergast, chief of the corrupt political machine in Kansas City, also was attempting to conciliate the "boss" who believed his candidate's klan affiliation would lose the votes of the Jewish, Catholic and Negro citizens.

Todd George, prominent Democrat, former county treasurer, ex-mayor and justice of the peace, and a prosperous real estate man, of Lee Summit, Mo., wrote a letter to his friend, Z. C. Barnes, on Oct. 14, 1944, regarding Truman's alleged klan connections in 1922-1923.

The letter from George to Barnes, released by the recipient, follows:

"Some time ago you were asking me about the time that your friend Truman joined the Ku Klux Klan. Now I have your letter of recent date asking me more about it.

"Well, it was some time ago since he stopped at my house and persuaded me to let him take me over to Hickman Mills where they were having a kind of protest meeting because they heard he was denouncing them.

"As I remember he told me on that trip that he took the oath from John R. Jones at the Baltimore Hotel and that some way the Pendergast bunch had gotten onto it and that he had to deny that he had ever joined. Anyway his purpose was to get me to quiet that bunch down and promise whatever it took to get them not to roll him at the general election that was only a few days off.

"Well, I had to do a lot of talking and excusing to get them satisfied. Any way it helped out but it didn't do a thing to me. I got much the worst of it with the wrath of the political machines on my back but some way he kept them satisfied.

"I was always very sorry that I did not keep his application card when I saw it with a lot of others at the headquarters that was then stationed in the Continental Building there in Kansas City. I don't know what became of it but I have since often wished I had it.

"Well, I suppose if he has now gotten such a break that he may some day be Vice-president of this great United States of ours, that all will be forgiven.

"With best wishes, I am,

"Yours very truly,

(Signed) "TODD M. GEORGE."

Shipstead for Dewey, Denounces Roosevelt

DULUTH, Minn., Oct. 27 (INS)—Minnesota's Senior U. S. Senator, Henrik Shipstead, long classified as an outstanding liberal, denounced President Roosevelt's foreign and domestic policies and came out for the election of Gov. Dewey.

KLAN LINK A LIE, SAYS TRUMAN

PEORIA, Ill., Oct. 27—Branded a former leader of the Ku Klux Klan in a series of affidavits by ex-Klansmen, Sen. Truman, Democratic vice-presidential candidate, explosively voiced his denial here.

Grilled by reporters in a press conference preceding his speech at the Shrine Mosque, he declared:

"That is a lie out of the whole cloth. It is one of the several red herrings Hearst and Bertie McCormick have loosed against me and the only thing that happened was a loss of sleep."

Asked flatly by a reporter: "Are you now or have you ever been a member of the Ku Klux Klan?" Sen. Truman replied:

"Why should I deny these cookies' lies? Hearst and McCormick will spend the rest of their time figuring out lies and I will not have any time to contravene them."

Admitting he knew Harry Hoffman, former Klansman who linked the Democratic vice-presidential candidate with the followers of the fiery cross, Truman exclaimed:

"I was attacked by the same crowd in 1922 when I campaigned for judge of the Eastern District of Jackson County. That came when the Klan was at its height and we whipped them in no uncertain fashion."

Speaking later at the Mosque he again denied that he had ever been a member of the robed organization.

In a statement preceding his scheduled talk, he said:

"Gov. Dewey still refuses to repudiate the eight isolationists senators running on the same ticket with him. If these men should be elected with Dewey, his words on international policy mean nothing.

"Isolationists are desperate to win this election. The Hearst papers have gone so far as to call me a member of the Ku Klux Klan. That charge is a complete falsehood. I never belonged to the Ku Klux Klan and I never attended any of its meetings."

He made no further reference to the Klan charge in the address that followed. About 900 persons attended the meeting.

OPA to Check On Election Gas

Democratic and Republican state committees must submit an accounting to the OPA by Nov. 20 showing how they used the 85,002 gallons of gasoline allotted them for election work on Nov. 6 and 7, Eldon C. Shoup, regional OPA administrator, said today.

The allotment of 42,501 gallons for each major party is based on an average of 25 gallons for each of the 1805 precincts in the state, Shoup said. This amount was agreed upon at a conference of OPA officials with William H. Burke, Jr., chairman of the Democratic committee, and George B. Rowell, chairman of the Republican group.

OPA authorities said minor political parties, which did not ask for similar special treatment, may apply for additional gasoline coupons at local rationing boards.

207 WALLACE BUILDING
PHONE 4-0378 4-0379
LITTLE ROCK, ARKANSAS

Gov. R. A. Buckner, Gen. A. Watkins, State Finance Committee

October 16, 1944

This is an invitation to you to join THE ONE THOUSAND CLUB, one of the most important clubs among supporters of the Democratic Administration.

The idea of such a club originated at a recent conference in the White House between the President, Robert E. Hannegan, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and Edwin W. Pauley, Treasurer of the Committee. At this meeting the President commented:

"I think it would be a good idea to have a list of 1000 persons, banded together from all over the United States, to act as a liason to see that facts relating to the public interest are presented factually to the President and the Members of Congress."

The thought was activated at the founder's meeting held at the Blackstone Hotel, Chicago, September 11, 1944. This organization will be a powerful instrument for good. It is to contain one thousand of America's leading business men and women.

Members of this organization undoubtedly will be granted special privilege and prestige by Party leaders. These members will be called into conference from time to time to discuss matters of national importance and to assist in the formulation of Administration policies.

To be eligible for membership in THE ONE THOUSAND CLUB will require a contribution of $1,000 to the National Democratic Campaign Fund. Attention is directed to the fact that 1,000 men at $1,000 each makes a total of one million dollars, one-third of the amount necessary to finance the National Campaign.

Dr. R. B. Robbins of Camden, Arkansas is organizing THE ONE THOUSAND CLUB in this state. May we count on you as a member? Will you send your check either to this office or to Dr. Robbins today?

Very truly yours

Dewey Starts Stretch Drive

By JACK BELL

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 27 (AP)—His Western campaign ended, Gov. Dewey started his stretch drive for the Presidency today by lining up a schedule of appearances in New York state and New England.

The Republican nominee will travel to Syracuse tomorrow for a major farm speech (12:30 p. m.).

The GOP candidate left unannounced the subject of a Tuesday night speech at Buffalo, apparently to leave the way open if he feels called upon to answer anything President Roosevelt might say in talks at Philadelphia tonight and in Chicago tomorrow night.

Dewey's Syracuse visit will take him into a New York state area which ordinarily could be expected to give him a substantial margin of votes.

The Syracuse and Buffalo journies may find the candidate making brief train-end appearances en route, a practice he is likely to follow on a projected trip which may take him through Connecticut and New Hampshire on his way to or returning from Boston for a scheduled speech Nov. 1.

Whether additional formal addresses will be fitted into his itinerary in the lapse of three days between the Boston visit and a Madison Square Garden rally in New York city Nov. 4 may depend upon what Roosevelt says and upon a final check of GOP prospects in New York and other populous eastern states.

A check of newsmen who have traveled nearly 20,000 campaign miles with him to all sections of the country except the south showed a majority thought the GOP candidate had improved his chances since he began his active speaking drive in Philadelphia Sept. 7.

Thousand Club 'Non-Partisan'

CHICAGO, Oct. 27 (AP)—The "One Thousand Club," described in a speech here Wednesday night by Gov. Dewey as organized by the Roosevelt Administration to "sell special privilege" to $1000 donors to the Democratic fourth term campaign, is "non-partisan," says Frank J. Lewis, the group's national chairman.

Lewis, Chicago manufacturer, said last night the club "has not sought and will not be entitled to receive patronage from any political party."

Lewis declared there were "prominent Republicans as well as Democrats" among the organization's present members, and he added all of them subscribe to the belief that President Roosevelt "should be permitted to carry on the present war to a conclusion."

Lewis, who is chairman of the Soldier field rally President Roosevelt is to address here tomorrow night, said if Gov. Dewey had "consulted an officer or member of the club" he "could not, with any regard for the truth, have made the statements about the club that he did in Chicago."

FD Lashes Out In Train Talk

By ROBERT G. NIXON

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 27 (INS)—President Roosevelt, making his first train platform speech in wartime, today lashed out at his Republican opposition with a charge that the GOP's campaign strategy is trying "to prove that a horse chestnut is a chestnut horse."

Mr. Roosevelt's special train paused here at 11 o'clock this morning for a 10-minute rear platform appearance by the President while en route to Philadelphia, where he will make his third major campaign speech tonight, this time on his administration's war policy.

In his brief remarks here, Mr. Roosevelt went back to the historic debates between Abraham Lincoln and Stephen A. Douglas to draw a parallel for attack on the Republican opposition.

"We are holding a notional election while the nation is at war—and this is the first time an election has been held under such conditions since 1864—80 years ago," the President said.

"Which calls to mind a remark made by Abraham Lincoln when he was campaigning against Stephen A. Douglas—a remark which is particularly timely and applicable today.

"Lincoln said, in every way possible that a horse chestnut is a chestnut horse.

"It seems to me that applies very neatly to some the Republican political oratory which has lately been agitating the air waves."

Mr. Roosevelt then praised the people of Wilmington for their contribution to the war effort in the manufacture of munitions and invasion landing craft.

The President voiced an appeal for "Every citizen of Wilmington and Delaware every man and woman who is qualified to vote—to step up to the polls on election day and cast the ballot."

Farmers Betrayed, Bricker Charges

By E. E. EASTERLY

WICHITA, Kans., Oct. 27 (AP)—Turning his attention to this breadbasket of the United States, Gov. Bricker asserted today that New Deal promises to the farmers had been shamefully broken.

The Republican nominee for Vice-President said that those who toil to produce the nation's food had been deprived of what he called sufficient labor, machinery and supplies, vexed by government regulations and made to face unwarranted shortages of feed grains.

"Yet," he continued, "the American farmer has continued to establish new production records—not because of the New Deal but in spite of the New Deal."

Bricker scheduled stops also at Wellington, Newton, and Emporia, Kan. today as he proceeded to Kansas City for a major address dealing with the record of President Roosevelt in international affairs and national defense. The speech will be broadcast (NBC) at 8:30 EWT, tonight.

In his speech here the Ohio governor declared the farmer had turned against the New Deal because he had been subjected to "arbitrary control, often by bureaucrats who have no conception of his problems and processes."

Dodges Honeymoon Today After Fatherless Wedding

DENVER, Oct. 27 (INS)—Cpl. Horace Dodge, 3d, 21, heir to a vast automobile fortune, with his red-haired bride of a few hours, was honeymooning today, as his father, Maj. Horace Dodge, Jr., was believed still en route to Denver—too late to be the youth's "best man."

Young Dodge's bride is the former Margery B. Gehman, 20, former Buffalo, N. Y., artist, airplane plant worker and daughter of a college professor. Maj. Dodge originally had objected to his son's marrying her on the ground he opposed "wartime marriages," but later relented.

Young Dodge, in a Denver-to-New York phone call, won his point that "wartime marriages were okay," by pointing out "what's going to be good enough for you should be good enough for your son."

Reference was to the elder Dodge's reported engagement to miss Clara Tinsley, a nurse from Louisville, Ky., who is now in England. She is slated to be the major's fourth bride, according to her sister, Miss Betty Tinsley.

Behind locked doors at St. Barnabas Episcopal Church, young Dodge claimed his bride in a double-ring ceremony late last night, performed by Rev. Charles H. Brady.

How Boston American Found the Lady in Red

By PAULINE WARREN

Trying to find the Lady in Red was like looking for a will-o'-the-wisp.

Everyone at Rockingham professed to have seen her at some time or other but each gave a different description of her.

No one knew her name, except the men behind the $100 windows and they wouldn't talk.

Each day the chatter grew wilder. She had bet $10,000. She had bet $15,000. She had bet $25,000.

When? "Yesterday," said one. "No, last Wednesday," said another. "Why, she hasn't been here in a week," scoffed another.

In the meantime race-goers were paying more attention to the $100 room, where she was rumored to be doing her betting, than to the horses.

Any woman entering that room caused a ripple of excited:

"There she is—there's the Lady in Red making her bet for today."

Crowds collected and stared with avid eyes, hoping to catch a glimpse of this legendary superwoman.

When two girls won the daily double on Wednesday and had to collect in the $100 room, because the pay-off ran into thousands, the usual whisper went around, and in less than 60 seconds hundreds had assembled. "That must be the Lady in Red! See her? There she is!"

Finally out of the welter of gossip painstakingly gathered at the track, a few facts emerged. The Lady in Red did not always wear red—she was dark with black hair and eyes, charming, about five feet two, and was married to a man who owns a bakery. In Revere, was the general gossip, but quite a few said it was in Chelsea.

An entire night was spent looking up the bakeries in Revere. There was no one there answering that description.

Then Donald Robinson, a Record cameraman, and I started a trek in another locale. We looked up firms in Roxbury. With a little deductive reasoning and the help of two kind-hearted men well acquainted with the neighborhood, we finally narrowed it down to two bakeries. I called at both.

At one I found a lead and looked up Mrs. Donara Mercuri. Instantly I knew she was our "Lady."

She was aghast at being discovered. The publicity which had pyramided over her exploits and warped them into extravagant fairy tales had frightened her.

"We never bet $25,000," was the first thing she cried. Her life has been a nightmare. Every day the papers printed wilder rumors heard at the track. Magazines were looking for her to get her system. One night she turned her radio on and there was Lowell Thomas talking about "The Lady in Red."

Her husband explained to me that he had been the one doing the betting—picking the horses himself but letting her put down the money because he felt she was his lucky charm.

It had all started because, after listening to touts, he had lost all his money but $500. That was two months ago. He decided to handicap horses himself.

He started with that $500, and he hit 110 show bets in a row. He never placed a bet on any horse except to show, and he always picked the favorites. He won 110 bets without a miss and pyramided the $500 into $14,000. The largest bet they placed was $10,000 on Texas Sandman. They made a thousand.

Now they have quit, because his family asked him to, fearing he'll go broke again. He has promised his brothers he won't bet except in small amounts.

"But I'll still play them to SHOW," he says, "as I think that's the only way to win."

Mrs. Mercuri will probably never wear red again. "I have only one suit which could remotely be called red," she said, "but it's not even a real red—it's a dark wine color. I wore it only twice at the track."

Special Exercises Mark Hub Navy Day Observance

While score of the greatest naval victory of all time was being added to hourly in the Pacific, Greater Boston paused today to honor the U. S. Navy on its 169th birthday with a program of special events designed to demonstrate civilian appreciation of the glorious deeds of the courageous sea forces.

HOLDUP VICTIM — Ramsey Ames, film star, was robbed of a dinner ring that Jackie Coogan gave her when she and a friend, Sylvia Lee, surprised two burglars in her Hollywood apartment.

R. Adm. George F. Hussey, Jr., chief of the bureau of ordnance, speaking before the Navy Day dinner of the Boston Advertising Club, warned against over-optimism in the wake of the great victory in the Philippines.

"No one of us can lose sight for a minute of the fact that the war is a long way from being won," the admiral declared.

He said "fantastic quantities of material" will be needed to smash the Japanese and declared "that material must come from the plants of American industry."

"By the time we reach the peak of our rocket program, which will be late in the first quarter or early in the second quarter of 1945, we will be expending 100 million dollars a month for this one type of ammunition," Hussey disclosed.

The admiral said the overall peak of ordnance expenditures will be approximately 350 million dollars per month.

Other speakers at the dinner included Gov. Saltonstall, Mayor Tobin, R. Adm. Robert A. Theobald, First Naval District commandant; Col. H. C. Pierce, USMC; Capt. Sherman W. Reed, commandant of Gallups Island Maritime Training School, and Com. W. N. Derby, Coast Guard.

Navy Day exercises were held at noon on the Common under the auspices of Navy Post, No. 297, American Legion, with naval veterans of both world wars participating.

The Common ceremonies were highlighted by the public induction of a group of Navy recruits, including several WAVES. The oath was administer by Lt Comdr. Milliken, chief of Navy recruiting in this district.

Tribute was paid to the Navy dead in an impressive memorial flower service at Boston fireboat wharf, Northern ave., conducted by the Legion unit.

With Gold Star Mothers of heroes of both world wars participating, flowers were cast on the water in memory of the Navy men who gave their lives for America.

Three thousand naval officers training at Harvard were scheduled to pass in review before R. Adm. Theobald later today at Soldiers' Field as his final official ceremony before going on the retired list.

WAVES studying at Radcliffe are also participating in the impressive ceremonies.

The city of Quincy was host to the officers of the U. S. S. Quincy at a reception in the Neighbor Club. Mayor Charles A. Ross, on behalf of the city, presented the ship with a mechanical cow, designed to convert powdered milk into liquid form.

Tonight the annual ball of Kearsarge Navy Veterans' Ass'n will be held in the Parker House. A special birthday program will be presented for sailors at the Buddies' Club on the Common.

The entire Navy Day program was arranged by the Navy League, under the supervision of Allyn B. McIntire, vice-president of the Massachusetts unit.

Blind Girl Takes 1st Step to Sight

Today the prayers that 15-year-old Phyllis Canavan again will see were one step toward fulfillment, following the first of a series of operations provided through the generosity of the Lions Club of her native Calais, Me.

Doctors at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary said an operation on her left eye had been accomplished without complications and that no definite further report could be made for several days. After a period of two or three months it is planned to transfer a cornea to the eye.

Little Phyllis has been sightless since she was two years old.

Welders Argue In Ship Trial

Arguments by counsel for 11 former welders at the Bethlehem-Hingham shipyard began before Federal Judge George C. Sweeney today, with the jury scheduled to get the case this afternoon.

The welders, charged with conspiracy to defraud the government, are a part of the group of 140 counters and welders who were involved in what the FBI termed a payroll fraud which cost the government $500,000.

A final witness was Edward F. McGunnigle, Jr., of West Ashland st., Brockton, one of the defendants who said he received presents of liquor and cigarettes for altering time records at the plant. He said he gave the presents away, as he was an abstainer.

McGunnigle said welders told him his records of their time were not accurate

Hub Couple Anxious For Son on Princeton

Word of the loss of the carrier Princeton in the Navy's smashing defeat of the Jap fleet off the Philippines brought concern today to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ross of Lawton st., Brookline, over the safety of their son, Bernard M. Ross, F 1c.

B. M. Ross

The 19-year-old youth, who enlisted in June, 1943, while attending Brookline High School, had been serving aboard the Princeton for about a year, but his parents have not had word from him for some weeks. A brother, Cpl. Max Ross, is with the Army in France.

the results had been highly satisfactory.

Churchill said that Russia and Britain had reached a very good working agreement about Greece, Romania, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia and Hungary.

That agreement, he said, was designed with the double objective of concentrating their efforts against "the common foe and providing so far as possible for a peaceful settlement after the war is over."

Shifting to the recognition this week of De Gaulle's provisional government of France, Churchill said it could be regarded "as a symbol of France's emergence from four dark years of terrible and woeful experience."

And, he said, it can be regarded as "heralding a period in which she will resume her rightful and historic role on the world stage."

VISITORS FROM BANGOR

First they came shopping in that wonderful bargain institution known as Filene's Basement—their visit to Boston wouldn't be complete without stopping in The World's Only Automatic Bargain Enterprise. # Winter Rains Slow Italy War

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN

ROME, Oct. 27 (INS)—Heavy winter rains curtailed operations on the Italian front today, but the British Eighth Army, in the Adriatic sector, reached the River Ronco and American Fifth Army forces scored continued gains toward Bologna.

A communique revealed patrols of the Eighth Army had crossed the Ronco, but pointed out the weather stalled the thrust against the vital communications town of Forli.

The Eighth Army had pushed to within five miles of Forli, Mussolini's home town, before foul weather set in.

With its patrols operating across the stream, the Eighth reached the Ronco "on a broad front," according to the communique, which also revealed Polish patrols acquired new positions in the mountains north of Bibbiena.

Tobin, Cahill Battle Bitter As Rivals Become Personal

The bitter battle of personalities between the Democratic and Republican gubernatorial candidates continued without letup today with Lt. Gov. Cahill declaring that Mayor Tobin is conducting ghost rallies, and the latter declaring his opponent has a mythical labor record.

"My opponent tells the people that 1500 veterans tendered him a reception at the Parker House while the truth of the matter is there were only 200 there," Cahill said. "It was a ghost rally."

"How can Horace Cahill, enemy of labor, discuss a mythical executive record?" Mayor Tobin retorted.

While Tobin and Cahill continued hostilities today, arrangements were being made for a huge Democratic rally in South Boston Sunday evening.

All of the Democratic candidates for state office will appear. The gathering to be held in the Municipal Building in Broadway, is being arranged by Cong. John W. McCormack and City Councilor Joseph M. Scannell.

Mayor Tobin today was scheduled to speak briefly in Hopkinton, Maynard, Ashland, Wayland, Westboro and Upton. Tobin rallies will be held tonight in Natick High School, the Memorial Building, Framingham, and at the Florence st. hall in Marlboro.

"I want to be elected governor by the men and women of this state who realize that the years ahead of us will be critical ones and who realize the necessity of alert and vigorous leadership in our state government," Tobin said today.

"I want the votes of our citizens who expect a candidate for governor to stand on his own feet and to stand on his own record.

"I feel certain that our citizens will rebuke the candidate who never discussed his own record. Yet, after all, how can Horace Cahill discuss a mythical record?

"No man can be elected governor of Massachusetts by hanging on the coattails of another man. During the trying years ahead our state will need a man who can stand on his own two feet. We will need a governor—not a hero worshiper.

"My record of seven years as mayor of Boston is a positive thing. My opponent's record as an executive is mythical."

Lt. Gov. Cahill, who is scheduled to speak tonight at rallies in Methuen, Lowell, Lawrence and Haverhill, said today, "I have repeatedly challenged my opponent to discuss his record as mayor of Boston. It now seems that he has no desire to discuss his seven long years as mayor.

"My opponent accuses me of trying to ride in on the coattails of Governor Saltonstall. Well, I certainly would not want to ride on the coattails of the Political Action Committee and Communism such as my opponent hopes to do."

Cahill announced today that he has appointed J. Ralph Granara of Boston as chairman of the committee of World War II veterans supporting his candidacy.

It was announced at Tobin campaign headquarters today that the Society of the Great Lithuanian Prince Keistutis, representing Lithuanian-Americans of every section of the Commonwealth, has given the mayor their pledge of unanimous support of their members.

The issue of the returning veteran was injected into the campaign for attorney-general when the Democratic candidate, former Lt. Gov. Francis E. Kelly, charged his opponent, Governor's Councilor Clarence A. Barnes, with seeking votes "by trying to make the veterans believe he is their friend."

Speaking at rallies in Brockton, Randolph and Quincy, Kelly said that last April he asked the Republican-controlled legislature to remain in session until they approved a state bonus for veterans.

"At that time Mr. Barnes was strangely silent," Kelly said. "Now, in October, he states he will establish a department within the office of the attorney-general to advise and counsel returning veterans. Why did he wait until October to repeat that promise I made last June 12?"

Barnes continued to cite his record as a successful practicing attorney and accused Kelly of being a professional politician. The Republican candidate will speak tonight over WNAC and the Yankee network at 8:15.

Also scheduled as a speaker in behalf of Barnes' candidacy is Robert J. Thomson, president of the Bethlehem-Hingham Shipyard Independent Union.

Japs Capture Chinese Center of Ningyuan

CHUNGKING, Oct. 27 (AP)—Japanese troops have captured the important communications center of Ningyuan, 110 miles east of Kweilin in a southward drive from Kiyang that has carried 60 miles in eight days, the Chinese high command announced today.

Injured Girl's Book To Cheer Disabled

BRIARCLIFFE MANOR, N. Y., Oct. 27 (AP)—When photogenic Betsey Barton, daughter of ex-cong. and advertising executive Bruce Barton, had a typewriter rigged above her hospital bed, she started a private rehabilitation project that may have significance for every war-disabled man and his family.

BETSEY BARTON
Becomes Author in Wheelchair

Ten years ago—she was 16 and by her own description "the average flibberty-gibbet"- her spine was smashed in an automobile accident, and both legs were paralyzed.

As she lay in bed, she wanted only to write. A wooden frame was made to hold a typewriter above her bed, but the elevation kept her from seeing the keyboard. She memorized it from a chart, and on a keyboard she still couldn't see, tapped out her first magazine article. She sold it and others to national magazines. Then accident overtook her again three years later in a second wreck.

Now, from her knowledge of the psychology of disablement, she has written a book, published today, that may help unlock the secret places in the minds of wounded men and help them on the road back. She calls the book "And Now to Live Again."

Its title signifies that Betsey Barton won her own victory. Now she lives her own life with a minimum of dependence.

Up at 7:30, she spends the morning writing or painting in oils or pastels. Throughout the day she takes 15-minute exercise periods, moving without the help of her nurse-housekeeper down the ramp to her backyard where a neighbor's dog—who has adopted her—is always there for company as she practices on her crutches.

"I have made progress on braces I did not dream possible," she said.

But for longer than she has been walking she has been swimming. She reaches a pool by means of a three-wheeled motorbike.

Stuck!

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 27 (AP)—W. G. (Billy) Hutson, proprietor of a Kansas City bar, received a letter from J. R. Ward, who operates the Horse and Jockey tavern, Bath, England, which said:

"One of your customers is a frequent visitor to the Horse and Jockey. Could you tell me how I can get chewing gum off my floor? It seems to stick pretty hard."

Hutson replied he had no "definite solution."

Presidential Citation To 3 Bay Staters

Keith Estate Increased $769,576 by Cardinal

The late Cardinal O'Connell was an excellent steward and business executive as well as spiritual leader, it was tellingly revealed in a statement of receipts and disbursements in the $3,000,000 estate left in his care by the late A. Paul Keith.

According to a report filed by Rt. Rev. Jeremiah F. Minihan in Suffolk Probate Court, the total value of the Keith fund turned over to Cardinal O'Connell on April 20, 1923, was $2,406,035.64 This, under the Cardinal's stewardship, was increased to $3,175,601.59 on Jan. 15, 1941, a gain of $769,576.95.

Keith, heir to the B. F. Keith theater fortune, died in New York in 1918.

Out of the estate, the report showed disbursements of $1,381,263 09 on construction of educational institutions, hospitals and homes throughout the diocese; $868,385 42 in educational contributions; $558,572.89 charitable donations, and $320,168.99 religious contributions.

Other structures, to which the estate contributed more than $100,000, were Cathedral High School at Boston, $154,954.44; gymnasium at St. John's Seminary, $111,701.05, and a recreation building at Working Boys' Home, $108,007.44.

Educational contributions included $301,511 to St. John's Seminary; $324,291 to the charitable and educational fund; $50,000 each to North American College at Rome, Boston College, and Catholic University for scholarship funds, and $27,244 for education of poor children.

Also constructed from the estate were the convent at the Cathedral, $64,929; Keith Hall at Lowell (school for girls), $13,472; property adjoining the retreat house at Gloucester, $10,660; Catholic Union of Boston, $8000.

War Fund Parade Route Completed

The route of Sunday's gala parade heralding the start of the 1945 Greater Boston United War Fund Campaign was announced today by the parade committee.

Marchers and the scores of patriotic and historical floats, military and city mobile equipment, will proceed from Commonwealth ave. and Arlington st. to Beacon, to Park, to Tremont to Boylston st., to Copley sq.

The red feather and Bay Colony hat, symbols of the drive, will be shown in colorful 12-foot replica in the United War Fund's own float in the lead of the parade, following the chief marshal and his staff.

All units of the armed services and their auxiliaries will be in line of march, with Col. Armand Lamoureaux, provost marshal of the First Service Command, serving as marshal of the parade's first division.

Marshals of the other four divisions will be Col. Vincent C. Breen, DSC, Col. Henry D. Cormerais, Col. George B. Stebbins, and Maj. Louis C. Adams, all of the Massachusetts State Guard.

Maj. Gen. Daniel Needham will be chief marshal, and Brig. Gen Wilham J. Blake, chief-of-staff.

Horse-drawn fire apparatus of the Civil War era, manned by Boston businessmen in oldtime fire helmets; the Tributary Theater's float depicting a scene from "Julius Caesar"; the Community Sailing Ass'n model sailboat float; the Wakefield Red Men's 45-piece band dressed in full Indian regalia, and the pipe band of the Canadian Legion are among parade features.

Roosevelt Vote Plea Stirs Smith College Ire

NORTHAMPTON, Oct. 27 (AP) A Smith College alumna who reportedly mailed postcards to 17,000 graduates urging that they vote for Roosevelt drew the ire of the college's president.

President Herbert J. Davis of Smith said the woman involved is Miss Elizabeth Royon, a Cleveland businesswoman and graduate of the class of 1936. Miss Royon, he said, has no official connection with the college although she used the college's name on her cards.

4 in U. S. Given Nobel Prizes

STOCKHOLM, Oct 27 (AP) — Award of Nobel prizes in medicine to four scientists now in the United States, three of them Americans, was announced by the Nobel Foundation.

The 1944 award, being made in both physiology and medicine, went to Joseph Erlander, professor of physiology at Washington University, St. Louis, and Herbert Spencer Gasser of New York, director of the Rockefeller Institute for their studies of the different functions of individual nerves.

Dr. J. Erlanger

The 1943 award, being made after a year's delay, was shared by Edward Adelbert Doisy, professor of biochemistry in the St. Louis (Mo.) University School of Medicine, and Henrik Dam of Copenhagen, now at Strong Memorial Hospital, Rochester, N. Y.

The prize for 1943 was for the discovery of the chemical nature of the "K" vitamin.

The 1944 award for medicine is worth 131,811 kroner ($29,069.-

Dr. E. A. Doisy Dr. H. S. Gasser

08) which will be divided between the two winners. The 1943 prize is worth 123,630 kroner ($29,-560.07) and also will be divided by the winners.

Two prizes also may be awarded this year in physics, two in chemistry and one in literature. If an award for literature is made it probably will be announced Nov. 9. Two persons mentioned as possible winners are Johnnes V. Jensen, Danish author of "The Long Journey," and Carl Sandburg, American poet. There will be no award for peace this year.

France Tells Pope Nuncio Unwelcome

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q—My husband is 42 years of age and has been in the Army Air Forces for more than two years. He was told by his commanding officer that he could get an honorable discharge, provided he got a letter from some war plant that would hire him. I want to know if he would lose his mustering-out pay and all the benefits of the GI Bill if discharged?

M. F., Brookline.

A—First of all, and I have just checked again with Army Headquarters, no discharges are being issued to men to enter war plants because of overage. Therefore I can't understand the basis on which your husband's C. O. would be recommending discharge. Soldiers released in the past to enter war plants were denied mustering-out pay, but eligible for GI Bill benefits.

Q—My son is entering the Army. He is married, no children, but has been supporting me. Can he arrange for support of both of us? How much does he have to pay, and what amount does the government contribute?

A. H., Ashland.

A—He may make application for allotment for you (mother) also his wife. You will receive $37 and wife $50. From his pay is deducted $22 for wife and $5 for mother. Gov't makes up the difference.

Q—I have been discharged from the Coast Guard, but I don't know exactly why I was discharged. I have been suffering from bronchitis. Could you tell me where I could get information on this matter?

W. E. T., Chelsea.

Q—I am a serviceman's wife and need a tonsilectomy as soon as possible. My husband is only a private and I have two small children. Is there any way the government would take care of this bill? I can't afford it myself.

H. L. P., No. Woburn.

A—The government does not pay any bills for medical or hospitalization for a soldier's family. You may apply to an Army installation where a hospital is located and, if accommodations were available, you would receive medical care. However, with the large numbers of wounded veterans returning to local hospitals, the chances are slim of being admitted. Suggest you contact local Red Cross Chapter and tell them your story. Army Emergency Relief Fund was once available to assist soldiers' families in such predicaments, but that has been withdrawn.

Surprise

Samar islands Monday night. Tuesday morning it engaged one lightly protected Kinkaid escort carrier group in the first surface battle since the battle of Empress Augusta bay in November, 1943.

Allied cruisers and destroyers returned the fire, supported by airplanes from both the Kinkaid escort carrier force and a strong group of large carriers which were rushed over by Halsey. The combined aerial surface attack routed this Jap force, which Tuesday night fled back through San Bernardino strait.

This battle cost the Japs one heavy cruiser sunk by aircraft and one by ships' gunfire, four battleships heavily damaged by bombs and fleeing, trailing oil, and one destroyer left dead in the water.

This action presumably was the one in which supporting Jap land-based planes mortally wounded the light carrier USS Princeton.

MacArthur reported Allied casualties as one unidentified escort carrier sunk and several escort carriers and destroyers damaged.

The Sulu sea battleship force steamed through Surigao strait into Leyte gulf Monday night and attacked transports, and other auxiliaries engaged in MacArthur's landings. Allied surface units rushed to counterattack. It is known cruisers and destroyers participated, but it is uncertain whether battleships made contact with the Japs.

MacArthur reported this Sulu sea force was "completely routed," losing a battleship of the Yamasiro class plus a cruiser and several destroyers. This batleship earlier was reported damaged by aerial bombs. The Jap force fled back through Surigao strait and was subjected to aerial attack again Tuesday morning.

Presumably it was this action in which HMS Australia was superficially damaged. MacArthur reported extremely light losses in Leyte gulf, saying several P-T boats were sunk or damaged and one destroyer was damaged.

The fiercest though shortest of the three battles began Tuesday morning when Adm. Halsey engaged the imperial carrier force from Formosa 300 miles northeast of Luzon.

Repeated carrier plane attacks took the Japs so completely by surprise they were able to launch only a few aircraft.

Aerial bombing and torpedoing was followed Tuesday night by cruiser and destroyer bombardment of Japanese cripples.

Adm. Nimitz's first incomplete report on this action listed two carriers and two light cruisers as definitely sunk, one carrier and two battleships probably sunk and two battleships, three cruisers and a number of destroyers damaged.

He said none of the U. S. ships was damaged although attacked by Luzon-based land planes.

All Together

Pin-Up Mom

NAVY DAY

THIS IS the day observed annually by the American people in honor of the Navy, sponsored by the Navy League of the United States, and commemorating the founding of our naval establishment in 1775 by the Continental Congress.

The year of the Navy's founding was a year of many great events, but none greater than the creation of the fighting maritime force which is honored today.

The battles of Concord and Lexington were fought on April 19.

On June 17 the name of Bunker Hill was made immortal in American history.

Paul Revere had made his famous ride from Boston to Lexington.

All these were stirring and vital events.

The American Navy came into being as one of these vital events.

Our nation achieved its independence with the indispensable aid of the Navy.

It has been maintained as a nation with the unfailing support of the Navy.

If America ever loses its independence or ever fails to sustain itself as a nation, that dread event will unquestionably and inexorably be the consequence of our neglect of the Navy.

SIGNIFICANTLY, we are now in the midst of a great struggle in which such a dread event might have occurred.

Today, the American Navy stands formidably and invincibly at the blazing Pacific crossroads from which presently we will emerge with victory.

We will be assured of peace by that victory.

We will remain in possession of our security and happiness because of it.

We will be enabled to stay free in consequence of it.

But a few short years ago, after emerging from another great war with victory and peace and a chance for permanent security and happiness, we gambled stupidly and almost fatally with our Navy.

We quit building new ships.

We even destroyed existing ships.

Fortunately, in time to avoid national destruction in a new war, but unhappily not in time to PREVENT the present war, we recovered our good sense in part and restored our vital Navy in considerable part.

Pearl Harbor was the PRICE of that nearly fatal lapse.

Pearl Harbor was not the fault of the Navy.

Pearl Harbor was certainly not a credit to the opportunistic and treacherous Japanese.

The American government which crippled the Navy in 1921 and in the years thereafter, and the American people who STOOD for the betrayal, were responsible for Pearl Harbor.

BUT WE had come awake in time to avoid a complete disaster at Pearl Harbor.

And since then we have developed a grand Navy, magnificently grand in ships and weapons, superlatively grand in fighting men and dauntless spirit.

Now the American people have daily cause to lift their faces in gratitude to the Navy.

They have cause to lift their voices in praise of the Navy.

They have cause to bow their heads in prayer for the Navy.

They have special and compelling cause for pride in the Navy.

Let us observe this Navy Day of 1944 in that spirit, with acknowledgment of its incomparable service and valor, and with the unbreakable resolve that the security and freedom it is now buying at such a cost will be the permanent possessions of all Americans for all time.

THIRTY-EIGHT per cent of the conversation of young couples concerns the naming of the first baby. The majority of kiddies are named after somebody. I don't care for that idea unless the name chosen is a colorful or attractive one. Most important thing is to choose a name the youngster will like in after years. This is especially true of girls. A name like Jennifer Jones, for example . . . World's champion father must certainly be that resident of Bogota, Colombia, who has been the papa of 43 children, 30 by his first wife; 13 by his second wife. His most recent blessed event consisted of quadruplets. He is 75 years old.

NAMES: Has been much discussion regarding Berlin, Ore., changing its name. There are 24 towns named Berlin in the United States. There are also four named Tokyo; in Arkansas, North Dakota, Ohio and Texas. Would be interesting to know how these towns happen to be named after the Jap capital.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS! Q—Natives of what foreign nation speak the best English? A—The Danish people seem to master English the best. I have heard many Danes speak English without the slightest trace an accent . . . Q—What character in fiction was known as the Swinging Door Kid? A—Was not a character of fiction but a real person. That was the nickname of Fred Perry, colorful Broadwayite. Q—You said no feminine film star was ever born in Pittsburgh. How about Natalie Moorhead? A—Natalie was a beautiful blonde and a very clever actress but never a star.

ENGAGEMENT RINGS! Now double engagements rings are suggested. The man gives the girl the usual diamond ring. She gives him a signet ring. The idea is of feminine origin. Not satisfied with the double wedding ring idea which shows a man to be definitely out of circulation, the girls want him to wear an engagement ring that will warn the rest of the females he is no longer an eligible bachelor. Whether or not an engagement ring will stop the eager bachelorettes from trying to win a man's regard is open to question. I have heard it claimed there are more female "wolves" than male. And that a married woman or engaged girl is much safer from temptation than a man in a similar postion.

SOLDIERS' DOGS: Those who are watching over the dogs of men who are at the fighting front have a great responsibility. In all the dreams of home a soldier his pet dog plays a major part. Even if he has a wife and a couple of children when he dreams of them rushing to the gate to meet him he also visions his dog coming joyfully bounding out. This thought is inspired by the case of Sgt. Michael Ryan of Brooklyn, one of the heroes of the Philippine invasion. In the midst of the triumph of being decorated, the sergeant received word from home his dog had been lost. Said the hero sadly: "Some of my fondest memories in these jungles have been of that little dog. I have been looking forward to seeing him on my return."

BRIEFLY: Capt. Irving O'Hay said: "New York is the most friendly and hospitable city in the world." The captain had been to all the world's great cities many times. I agree with him. And the second most hospitable city is Chicago . . . Am asked if I know of a restaurant with a Portuguese cuisine. I know of Armenian, Hungarian, Greek, Austrian, Russian, Polish, Spanish, Swiss, Syrian and Swedish restaurants. I even know of a place with an Irish cuisine. But none specializing in Portuguese food.

PASSING BY: Hildegarde Sell, The Milwaukee chanteuse. Packing them in at the Plaza Persian Room, as usual. Hildegarde is the best of the feminine night spot entertainers. She is a one-woman show and does not need the assistance of floor show girls or corny comics. Of the songs she is singing now I like best "My Heart Sings Let's Get Together for Awhile" and "You're What's the Matter With Me."

NEW YORK, Oct. 27—In March, 1942, the United States Supreme Court handed down a decision so ominous that even one of the lawyers for the defense, who thereby, unexpectedly, won his case, was reported shocked and disgusted. This was the opinion written by Justice James Byrnes, the faithful South Carolina member of the New Deal, the handshaker and Congressional fixer for President Roosevelt, in the notorious Teamsters' case.

Westbrook Pegler

In this case, Thurman Arnold, himself a New Dealer with reservations or eccentricities, in the role of Assistant Attorney General, prosecuted Local 807 of the Teamsters' Union of the American Federation of Labor, and 72 individuals, under the Anti-Racketeering Law.

This is a New York local. This law was passed in 1933 after a Senatorial investigation of racketeering.

After the first draft had passed the Senate, however, William Green, president of the A. F. of L., and Joe Padway, its general counsel, protested that it might restrict the legitimate activities of labor.

Plainly it did not restrict any legitimate union activity for it forbade only the collection of money or attempts to collect money by force and violence or threats to use such force.

Obviously such conduct is not a legitimate activity of any element of the community. A union has no more right to prey on commerce in this way than, say, the Capone gang.

NEVERTHELESS, at the request, amounting to a political command, of Green and Padway and with the blessing of the New Deal, the bill was amended by the Department of Justice to except from the criminal classification "the payment of wages" by an employer to an employe.

Of the 72 original individual defendants in this case, 27 had criminal records.

For example, one had a police history extending over 19 years, including one charge of grand larceny, two charges of burglary and one each of robbery and felonious assault.

Shortly after Byrnes' decision this defendant was arrested again on a charge of assault and rape.

Another had been convicted of forgery and, after the Byrnes decision, went to prison for robbery.

NEVERTHELESS, the New Deal Supreme Court, in Byrnes' opinion, held that these men were within their rights, as union men, in forcing from the owners of "over the road" trucks entering New York from other states, $9.42 for each large truck and $8.41 for each small truck.

These amounts represented the local New York union's scale for a whole day's work of a driver.

The trucks approaching the city were manned by union drivers, members of the same international, or parent union, but members of other locals outside the city.

Byrnes admitted that the evidence proved that the defendants, including the convicted criminals among them, "did use violence and threats," and, in several cases, "refused to work for the money when asked to do so."

In other words, they were "stick-up men," as Chief Justice Stone contended in his contemptuous dissent, and not bonafide employes.

FOR JUSTIFICATION, Byrnes held that "any person who attempts to obtain the payment of wages" was exempt from the act.

And he insisted that, even though the employer rejects the "attempt," the individual still has a legal right to use force in a transaction amounting to extortion or, as Justice Stone called it, robbery, if he is a member of a union.

BYRNES LEFT the court to become Roosevelt's Assistant President. His decision and opinion have plagued him ever since.

THE PRIMARY, principal political beneficiary of this opinion was Dan Tobin, president of the Teamsters' Union, who was Roosevelt's official host at a dinner in Washington, at which the President delivered his tribald speech to a nation whose 12 million sons are under arms.

This was one of Old Dan's unions which had received, by interpretation, from the Roosevelt Supreme Court the right to force payments even though, in the prevailing case, "the defendants refused to work for the money."

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 27—Mary Pickford today signed Robert Cummings to a long-term deal, saying, "I have the advice of my lawyer that Mr. Cummings is free to accept this offer, which puts him under personal and exclusive contract to me." Mary was referring, of course, to Bob's long-drawn-out effort to break his contract with Universal.

Cummings won his initial suit in a decision that was later appealed by the studio. That's the last word we had on the tangled affair but Vic Orsatti, Bob's agent, seconds Mary's statement that Cummings is in the clear.

His first picture on the new Pickford set-up will not be announced until December. Meanwhile, Bob retains his status as a civilian flight instructor and, incidentally, his standing as one of the hottest romantic bets on the screen. In spite of being out of circulation for more than two years, letters continue to come in about him in "Princess O'Rourke."

IT'S SIGNED, sealed and settled. Capt. Burgess Meredith plays Ernie Pyle in "G. I. Joe" after Lester Cowan had scouted around a year looking for the right actor. At one time James Gleason was the popular candidate. Then Walter Brennan was rumored. But the plum goes to Meredith, who is already in Hollywood. Because of the morale-building nature of the picture (originally it was Pyle's "Here Is Your War"), the Army Air Force has put Meredith on inactive status, returning him to active duty when the movie is completed. Nobody in Hollywood is happier over this assignment than Paulette Goddard who is Mrs. Meredith in private life.

THE MILLS of the gods have never ground any finer, or slower, than the wheels getting Joan Crawford's "Mildred Pearce" rolling at Warners. After a solid year of discussing (and, I hear, some plain cussing) over assorted story problems and other hurdles, this hardy perennial has reached the casting stage. Jack Carson gets the leading role opposite Crawford, playing the smart aleck promoter who almost has a murder pinned on him. Now, with Michael Curtiz set to direct and Joan looking like a million dollars and ready to go, there's every indication that "Mildred" will live and breathe—at long last.

SIDELINES: Here's a hot one: Sol Lesser, who isn't happy about the chimpanzee situation in his "Tarzan" pictures, bought two young chimps to raise and train. But they are in Florida. Since they can't get "priority" transportation, their trainer may have to hitch hike the monks out here . . . One picture will do it—and "The Very Thought of You" did it for Andrea King. She's so good as the erring war bride that Warners have handed her the role of Lisa in "Hotel Berlin." It's the femme lead, a German actress who is the beloved of a Nazi general kindly invited by his superiors to blow his brains out . . . The OWI asked permission from Mrs. Edna Gladney and M-G-M to broadcast "Blossoms in the Dust" to liberated countries. It will be acted by native casts and was selected as an ideal morale film because it emphasizes the humanitarian qualities of Americans where children are concerned. The child problem in Europe is pitiful.

YES, IT'S TRUE Hedy LaMarr is going to have a baby, and she and John Loder hope it will be a girl. "We are so happy," said Hedy, "We want a girl first and then we hope to have a little boy later on; and then, perhaps, another little girl." The interesting event is scheduled for June and will be the first child for the Loders who married in May, 1943.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Mrs. Humphrey Bogart (Mayo Method) has retained Jerry Giesler, famed Chaplin case lawyer who also handled Errol Flynn's court troubles. According to insiders, Mayo will not file for an immediate divorce action, but has engaged Giesler to look after her interests in the case.

HOLLYWOOD IN SHORTS: Lt. Col. Jimmy Stewart sent personal Christmas greeting cards to his pals by way of Lt. Col. Sam Greenwall of the Hearst Metrotone Newsreel; Lana Turner upset about the way radio announcers pronounce her name. It's Lahna, boys; L. O. P. wires that "Anna Lucasta" is the best drama to hit Broadway since "Anna Christie"; after 10 years of childless marriage, the Jack Marshalls are adopting a British war orphan; the three sisters of Maria Montez are in Hollywood and will make their home with her; the not-so-Chili Miss Williams at the Biltmore Bowl with Michael St. Angel, David Lewis tossing a charming birthday party in honor of Joan Fontaine, with Norma Shearer, Marty Arrouge, Bill Goetz Leo Spitz, the Hall Wallises and other guests enjoying the amazing assortment of hors d'oeuvres. Humphrey Bogart stagged it; the fete Dick Haymes hosted at Slapsy Maxie's was in honor of his brother, who is just out of the service after three years; Sheila Ryan's mother, whose professional name is Edith McLaughlin, leaves for New York to costume the Andre Charlot's revue; Hazel Brooks and Cedric Gibbons were married in the chambers of Judge Holland in Beverly Hills, Wednesday night.

DID GERTIE LAWRENCE tell them off about the way the Fifth avenue women are spending money for baubles! Her whole argument is, what makes New York think the war is over? Alexander Knox is back with us after a jaunt to Canada to visit his family; Peter Lawford, who may or may not be "torched" over Lana Turner, has made it two dates in a row with Helen Forrest; Effie O'Connor, Donald's mother, has been promoted from a secretary to a stock actress on the "U" lot That's all today

12 to 16 ripe red apples
1½ cups sugar  1-3 tsp. vinegar
1-3 tsp. salt  2 tsp. vanilla
2-3 cup molasses
2 tbsp. butter  ½ cup water

Wash the apples throughly and dry well. Remove stems and stick pointed end of lollipop stick into the stem end of each apple. Boil molasses, sugar, water, vinegar, and salt, without stirring, to 270 deg. F. or until it becomes brittle when tried in cold water. Remove from fire and add butter and vanilla. Dip apples into the syrup, being careful to cover entire surface of apple with the glaze. When well coated, place apple blossom end down on a sheet of waxed paper and allow to dry.

PUMPKIN FACES

By the way, to make an attractive buffet table and get the full good from all the food you use, be careful in cutting the oranges called for in the punch recipe. Slice off top sections to serve as lids. Then scoop out the contents with a grapefruit cutting knife. The orange pulps may then be sectioned and tossed into the punch. From the by-product, the hulls, you can carve miniature pumpkin faces.

Be sure to cut a tiny hole in the bottoms of the oranges, sized just right to hold small birthday-cake candles. Then cut corresponding holes in the lids to serve as chimneys. Arrange these in a ring around the table and light up just before serving time.

HOT MULLED RAISIN CIDER

2 qts. apple cider  ¼ tsp. salt
6 whole allspice
½ cup sugar or white corn syrup  Orange sections
6 whole cloves
4 sticks of cinnamon
½ cup seedless raisins

Combine first seven ingredients in a saucepan, and place over low heat. Bring to boiling point, and simmer 5 minutes. Remove spices from cider mixture. Add orange sections and serve hot. Makes 8 servings.

GINGERBREAD

⅓ cup shortening  ½ cup sugar
2 eggs, well beaten  1 tsp. salt
⅔ cup molasses
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 tsp. baking soda
1 tsp. ground ginger
1 tsp. cinnamon  1 cup sour milk
½ tsp. ground cloves

Cream shortening and sugar. Blend in eggs and molasses. Sift dry ingredients and add alternately with sour milk to creamed mixture. Pour into well-greased 9-inch square pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for about 45 minutes. Makes one 9-inch cake.

A Powder for Any Face

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

IF YOU WOULD BE the picture girl of his dreams and the loveliness of reality . . . look powder-pretty with a long-clinging powder keyed to the skin-type you want to portray. Keep up appearances with a perpetual well-powdered state of femininity. It's obvious that Dane Clark is "Dane-dreaming" about Faye Emerson whose face is smooth, radiant and fresh.

HE SAYS: "Darling, your nose is shiny." But, we say: "A shiny nose is the highlight of unattractiveness."

Men may pretend annoyance at the use of a powder-puff in public . . . but rest assured that the sight of a shiny, oil-oozy face displeases them much more. If you want to please a man . . . especially a man in the service . . . please look powder-pretty.

While most women, fortunately, realize the importance of face powder . . . we're plugging today not only to keep you in a well-powdered state of femininity . . . but to acquaint you with a new-type face powder that is almost "every woman's powder" . . . a powder of such a texture that any face can wear it . . . and well . . . and in shades.

It is a face powder of a famous-name house . . . whose laboratory experimented a long, long time with unlimited patience to achieve a powder that was long-clinging over a period of hours . . . that made constant dabbing unnecessary . . . that kept your face perpetually fresh-looking. It is a powder that won't slip off your features readily . . . for it is neither too light nor too heavy . . . and equally beauty-right for dry or oily skins.

SPREADS SMOOTHLY

It spreads so smoothly that it has extra coverage. That's because it's so fine . . . and believe it or not . . . it's an art to achieve a face powder that's been beaten to the finest state of "impalpability" . . . to quote the chemist who used the word . . . and at the same time to combine this quality with a texture that has enough body to cling to your skin for long, busy days.

So, whether you want your skin to suggest porcelain prettiness . . . a warm outdoor glow . . . or to suggest the lush dark beauties of our South American belles . . . it's all a matter of choosing the right shade keyed to each skin-type you portray. The most instinctive 20th century gesture is to powder your nose . . . so remember men on leave want to see you look picture-pretty . . . a vision to remember for weeks and months after that furlough is past.

For the name of this just-right-weight face power, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Career Plans

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I will graduate from high school before long, and cannot make up my mind as to what to do afterward. I would like to become a trained nurse, but my friends and some relatives advise against it, saying it is hard work. But I am strong and dependable enough to tackle anything.

My parents want me to go to college, but I don't want to go to college and then take up nurse's training. I've always had a great imagination and want to write, and would be glad to go to college for four years if I can take up writing there.

I feel that in nursing I will be helping someone and doing something useful. On the other hand, I feel like writing. I've also thought of becoming a doctor.

You seem drawn in several directions. But if writing appeals to you more than the other professions, why not go to college and specialize in English and journalism? On the other hand nursing offers a wide field at the present time. If you do not care to enlist for the nursing course, why not take up nurse's aide training, which the Red Cross is offering?

Pint-Size Jackets for Winter

By BETTINA BEDWELL

EVENING dresses with very low-cut tops to them being in style again, there is a whole flock of small wraps around, designed to cover your shoulders with, just in case. They are strictly indoor wraps, and I think they'll come in mighty handy if we have a cold winter.

I like the pint-size jacket that has every inch of its surface glorified with embroidery, one of the best of these tiny wraps. It has long sleeves and gives you just enough cover without being so drippy it will get in your way every time you make a move.

Such a jacket is part of the Fox Brownie outfit sketched by Miss Dulin. The slim dress is made of turquoise blue crepe, with a graceful back movement to the skirt and a bustle sash at the waistline. The bosom-length jacket is bright red wool, with rich pearl and colored bead embroidery all over the body, and narrow bead fringe edges.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Thursday—On Tuesday evening I attended the rally at the Hotel Willard sponsored by the District of Columbia Democratic central committee and servicemen's wives for the re-election of Roosevelt. An original song, dedicated to the President, was sung.

This morning, bright and early, two gentlemen came to breakfast with me. It is a wonderful thing to talk to people who have courage about the future. So many people approach the problem of jobs for all with a defeatist attitude.

So when you find yourself with two people whose feeling about the economic problems of the future is the same as the country as a whole has felt about winning the war, it gives you a tremendous sense of confidence.

THE PEOPLE of this country accomplished the unbelievable in production during the war.

The same kind of courage and vision will carry us through to full employment in the postwar period, and to a really better life, one hopes, for all the world. But it does require imagination and confidence in ourselves.

Another morning visitor was a woman from Liberia, Mrs. Sarah Simpson George, who is here studying kindergartens. Following her was a gentleman who thought he had a plan to help home owners in the future.

I TOOK the noon train to New York on Wednesday, and in the evening went to public school 194. A new program is being inaugurated there. A community worker is being employed, and the school is planning to be a more useful part of the community as a whole.

The evening was extremely instructive to me, and though I did not know much about the details of their plans before, I shall now watch the developments with keen interest.

Cancel Decree To Guam Ghost

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Oct. 27 (AP)—An interlocutory divorce decree granted Aug. 8 to George Ray Tweed, 45, Navy radioman rescued from Guam last July after eluding the Japanese there for 31 months, was set aside by Judge Jacob Weinberger, who awarded the decree. Tweed was not present.

The petition to set aside the decree was filed by Mrs. Mary Tweed, 27, who contended she was unfamiliar with the nature of the divorce papers she signed.

2 Greater Hub Men Reported Wounded

OTTAWA, Oct. 27 (AP) The Canadian Army announced today the following have been wounded:

Pvt. Robert Fraser Callaghan; cousin, Miss H. MacCready, 197 Morrison ave., Somerville, Mass.

Pvt. Alfred Horatio Dunham; wife, Mrs. Bertha Agnes Dunham, 34 Lee st., Cambridge, Mass.

No Pheasants

Add horrors of war—now there's a shortage of pheasants.

So 17 members of the Scituate Rod and Gun Club had to eat just plain chicken at their annual dinner.

They appointed a committee to restock the woods with rabbits, because it seems the supply of rabbits is dwindling, too.

They couldn't blame the OPA or the WFA and nobody knew anything about any pheasants having flown overseas for lend lease.

Baby Boy Born In Ambulance

A baby son was born to Mrs. Margaret Keenan, 39, of Dalrymple st., Jamaica Plain, today as she was being rushed in a police ambulance to Faulkner Hospital. She is the wife of Michael Keenan, Roxbury, chain store manager.

The ambulance was sent to the Keenan home in response to an emergency call and Patrolman Charles Atkinson assisted the mother as the stork arrived while en route to the hospital.

Fight Looms Over Medford Fire Captain's Two Wills

Lively contest over the modest estate of the late Bernard C. Papkee of Morton ave, Medford, a captain in the Medford fire dept., loomed today following the filing of two deathbed wills, one signed last Oct. 13 and the other signed five days later, just three days before he died.

The first will bequeathed contents of his home to Mrs. Dorothy Snow, his housekeeper and fiancee, along with half of his realty holdings.

The second will left everything to his brother, Gustave A. Papkee of Winchester st., Medford, and made no mention of Mrs. Snow. In the first will, Gustave was given a half interest in Winchester st. property and an automobile.

Both wills were made at the New England Sanitarium, where the testator died Oct. 21.

According to notations filed in Middlesex Probate Court, Capt. Papkee's estate consists of $3500 in real property and $1700 in personal estate.

SOKOLSKY HITS PAC THREAT OF REVOLUTION

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Many labor leaders have for years been discussing the prospects of establishing an American labor party similar in form and character to the British labor party. Such an organization would, of necessity, be anti-Communistic. Efforts to establish it have failed because of Communist interference and connivance.

The Political Action Committee has now doomed this proposal, for the Political Action Committee is not only a Communist tool but has established itself not to advocate principles but to support one inevitable and indispensable man, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The Socialists and more conservative labor leaders and workers fear the consequences of this move. They recall how in the formative days of the Russian revolution, the Communists destroyed every democratic element in Russian life and finally supported the dictatorship of Stalin.

They recall how the Communists sabotaged all democratic elements in Germany prior to Hitler, actually by their conduct paving the way for the Nazi dictator.

They recall that Leon Blum's government in France, which was socialistic and offered France a new deal, was fought by the Communists whose strikes and demonstrations weakened France until it could not defend itself. And they note the Communist pressures upon De Gaulle at this moment.

No group distrusts the Communists more than the anti-Communist elements in labor. Communism represents the disruption of organized labor, the sacrifice of the individual worker to the program of a political conspiracy.

And these same anti-Communists fear the permanent effects of the Political Action Committee as a united front movement behind one man.

The principle of leadership was Hitler's principle. It is the central theory of Fascism. It is not a Communist doctrine but it is practised in Soviet Russia. It may be defined as follows:

That there is one man in the total population of a nation who, by training, by experience, by natural gifts is alone suited to rule the whole people; that such a man is indispensable and must be supported blindly.

In a true democracy, every official must be subject to public criticism while he still seeks office.

Earl Browder and Sidney Hillman have organized the Political Action Committee with the threat that if they fail, they will disrupt America. Let me quote Browder's Madison Square Garden speech in which he said that if Dewey were elected:

"It means the sharpest accentuation of class struggles in America ever seen in history."

Certainly neither the Democrats nor the Republicans would be guilty of this. The leadership of such movements in American life for a quarter century HAS ARISEN FROM THE COMMUNISTS WHOSE HEAD IS EARL BROWDER AND WHOSE FRONT IS SIDNEY HILLMAN.

The Political Action Committee is then THE FORERUNNER OF REVOLUTION.

AMERICANS WILL ACCEPT THE CHALLENGE.

Nation to Try Hub Paper Plan

The drive by Boston shoppers to conserve paper by carrying purchases unwrapped is to be tried out in other large cities of the nation at once, it was announced today by W. Thomas Hoyt, acting national director of the WPB salvage division.

Hoyt declared in a flying trip here that Boston was the first major city to try out the idea and that its success warranted similar drives throughout the country.

Speaking to members of the Retail Trade Board, Hoyt said:

"The paper shortage is more critical than ever. Paper mills' inventory is at an all-time low. The Army is calling for more and more paper products, for one reason because it requires five to ten times as much paper to supply the Pacific war than the war in Europe.

"It is impossible to over-emphasize the need for paper salvage and paper conservation, and the critical period will continue even after the war in Europe is successfully terminated."

Dorchester Niece Seeks To Break Fr. O'Connor Will

Answers to the petition of Mrs. Mary Tierney of Mayhew st., Dorchester, challenging the validity of the will of Rev. Michael J. O'Connor of Framingham, must be filed in Middlesex Probate Court by Dec. 1.

Mrs. Tierney, niece of the priest, who was senior chaplain of the Yankee Division in the last war and the only priest to achieve the rank of brigadier general, filed a petition for administration of Fr. O'Connor's estate.

She contends that his will, which left the bulk of his estate to charity, "was afterward revoked." Neither Mrs. Tierney nor her counsel, Atty. James Luby of Framingham, would amplify this statement, asserting they did not want to reveal anything until the court had opportunity to determine the issues.

Fr. O'Connor, pastor of St Bridget's Church, Framingham, was 76 when he died Sept. 26. In his will, dated March 11, 1933, he bequeathed the residue of his property to Catholic charities of the Boston archdiocese. The will left Mrs. Tierney $500, and $1000 to a brother, Timothy, of Ireland.

In her petition, Mrs. Tierney names heirs-in-law and next of kin as herself; Miss Margaret O'Connor of Rutland, Vt., a sister; Timothy and John O'Connor, brothers, both of Ireland; Margaret Kearney of Brattleboro, Vt a niece, and John Kearney of Ireland, a nephew.

Alcohol Holiday Seen Dubious

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (AP) — The War Production Board can neither grant alcohol distillers another liquor-making holiday nor permit any blanket relaxations of control over other industries at present, Chairman Krug announced.

Krug told his news conference that proposals for a new liquor-holiday, previously seen as a November possibility, could not be given an answer for several weeks, perhaps a couple of months.

WPB is watching the supply and demand for war alcohol every week, Krug said, and "as soon as the situation permits appropriate action will be taken."

Harriet C. Aldrich to Wed Next Friday

By BETTY ALDEN

Three years ago, this attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop Aldrich turned her back on the usual debutante routine and surprised her friends by taking up the study of biophysics and chemistry at M. I. T. She continued her studies at Barnard and since graduating last spring has been research associate in the physical chemistry department at Harvard Medical School. She and Lt. Bering have set next Friday, Nov. 3, as the date of their wedding with Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick officiating in Riverside Memorial Church and the young couple welcoming their friends afterward at the Aldrich home. The bride's sisters, Mary, Lucy and Elizabeth, will be among the bridesmaids. The best man will be Ens. Robert H. Strange, USNR, of Boston, who included Lt. Bering among his ushers when he married post deb Ruth Williams at Emmanuel Church a few years ago.

Many well known Hub socialites will be among the wedding guests for the bride-to-be is generously endowed with relatives in Boston's most elite social circles. She is a niece of Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., of New York and Mr. and Mrs. William Aldrich of Brookline. Her father is chairman of the board of Chase National Bank and president of the National War Fund. Mrs. Aldrich is a vice-chairman of Gotham's Civilian Defense Volunteers.

Lt. Bering graduated from the University of Utah and from Harvard Medical School in 1941.

All A-Flutter

SHELTON, Neb., Oct. 27 (AP)—George N. Mortimer was busy in his machine shop when he heard a fluttering sound, looked up to see a pheasant fly in.

Mortimer, a collector of guns, hurriedly eyed his 200 weapons and was about to select one to shoot the feathered invader. But he remembered—as the bird flew away—all his guns were unloaded.

Test Proves Bostonians' Food Lacking in Vitamins

CHICAGO, Oct. 27 (AP) — A group of scientists who literally snatched people's meals from under their noses in order to determine what America is eating reported that the average citizen is not receiving sufficient quantity of essential vitamins and minerals to insure good health.

And this is so, they said, despite increased national emphasis on better eating habits during the war.

Details of method of determining what foods folks are actually stowing away were in a report prepared for delivery to the American Dietetic Association's 27th annual meeting by Dr. Robert S. Harris, nutritional biochemist at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Harris told how he and nine other M. I. T. investigators supervised a study during which collectors dropped in on a group of families in Boston and New York at mealtime, grabbed back-filled plates off the tables just as diners got set to heave-ho locked the victuals in portable insulated iceboxes, and then whisked them away for chemical analysis.

Only seven percent of the persons whose foods were analyzed for vitamin and mineral content received all the nutrients in amounts advised by the National Research Council (NRC) for optimum health. And only 21 per cent received a "protective" intake of the NRC standard.

Lucile Watson Met Film's Star

Lucile Watson's quite worldly Mother Superior, especially in that briefly intelligent exchange of dialogue with Vladimir Sokoloff, as the nunnery gardener, is the best of Paramount's trucked-up underground drama, "Till We Meet Again."

Now showing on the Metropolitan screen, the Frank Borzage-directed picture is a tardy, tawdry, highly fictionized attempt to tell the story of the French patriot forces. Winston Churchill had the phrase for it.

Early in the picture, Miss Watson's Mother Superior says to the gardener:

"I don't know which one of us

BARBARA BRITTON

spends more time on our knees these days, you or I."

To which he replies: "Well, Mother, I don't know which one of us has more to show for it."

It augers well, but in no time at all the Nazis invade the cloister, kill the Mother Superior and then, believe it or not, react like normal Christians, blessing themselves and seeming sorry for their deed.

Starting from there, if you loved "Going My Way," as we did, you'll doubtless dislike the picture's flagrant bad taste in attempting to collect on the popularity of that picture and the other best-seller with a Catholic angle, "Song of Bernadette."

Barbara Britton plays a novice who, believing she is acting as the deceased Mother Superior would have her do, aids the American flier, Ray Milland, to escape to England by posing as his wife.

They have a lot of lovely conversation that is pure as the driven snow, but their eyes speak the universal language. P. D.

Court Hears Of Foiled Holdup

Two Revere youths faced Lynn district court today in the aftermath of a Lynn shoe store battle in which Morris Pecker, the manager, valiantly fought off an attempted holdup.

They are James Arigo, 21, of Revere st., and Carmen Albano, 17, of Shurtliffe st., both charged with assault and battery with intent to rob. Arigo was arrested while still in the clutches of Pecker, while Albano was picked up by police a short time later.

According to Pecker, he was alone in his Market st. shoe store when Arigo came in and asked for a pair of shoes. Then a tall man came in with a raincoat over his arm. Beneath the raincoat he had a shotgun.

He growled "This is a stick up."

Whereupon, Pecker swung a shoe at the gunman. The gunman turned and ran, dropping his coat. Pecker, shouting for help, seized Arigo and the pair battled all over the shop and out onto the sidewalk.

Merry Show for Boston Fans

By MARY X. SULLIVAN

If you're looking for a pleasing, well-rounded bill of entertainment, the RKO-Boston this week is your dish. You'll discover Perry Como, the new singing sensation of CBS, you'll enjoy Clyde Lucas' music and the vaudeville numbers, besides seeing an amusing film comedy and a corking March of Time.

Judging from the applause for Perry Como (and the comments of the bobby sox gals in the ladies' lounge) Sinatra may well look to his laurels. Judging him on his merits as a baritone, we would say that he need neither imitate or apologize to either Frankie or Bing when he has developed a little more polish.

In his early numbers he seemed a bit unsure of himself . . . it may be an assumed shyness, which male singers have inflicted on us ever since The Voice clicked . . . but when he got into his stride he was pretty terrific. He sings "Temptation" as well as it has ever been sung.

Dick Buckley, billed as the comedian with a new twist, is indeed that. Some of his material seemed a bit too sophisticated for the audience (and we do not mean risque) but when he got four members of it up on the stage and made Charlie McCarthys of them everything was fine. He has a hat routine that is wacky but new and funny.

On the screen, Laraine Day portrays the trials of being about the richest girl in the world in "Bride By Mistake." Alan Marshall is the love interest, and Allyn Joslin is excellent as a stooge-husband. It is good escapist entertainment.

Brian Donlevy Chalks Up New Character Triumph

By DON WARD

"An American Romance," now to be seen at the State and Orpheum, tells forcefully and at great length the proud American legend of the bohunk immigrant who finds the land of opportunity and works his way to the top.

Brian Donlevy enacts that man — or perhaps one should say one of those men, for they are very many in U. S. annals — and in so doing hangs another fine portrait in his rapidly growing gallery of impressive film characters.

Donlevy is now Steve Dangos, husky Slovak disgorged at Ellis Island around the turn of the century. He speaks no English. He has no money.

The iron mines of Minnesota are a thousand miles away. Steve walks it, grabs a shovel at Osabi and pitches in.

Six bucks a week. He backs out iron ore from the red hills, and somehow he hacks out a rudimentary education in the little red schoolhouse. More, he meets and marries the pretty Irish schoolteacher with the red hair. Very stimulating color, red.

Under the inspiration of her guidance and his own indomitable will, Steve follows the ore boats down the Great Lakes to the blast furnace country. He learns how to make steel, then automobiles.

It is an enormously rugged struggle to the top, but Steve makes it because Steve is enormously rugged himself.

There are five sons: George Washington Dangos, Thomas Jefferson Dangos, Abraham Lincoln Dangos and Theodore Roosevelt Dangos. The eldest is lost in the First World War. The youngest succeeds his father in the factories — but not before they have a bang-up fight over a labor issue.

The son has some very enlightening words to say about the rights of labor. You ought to like it.

The story was written and directed by King Vidor. It is long and at times laborious, but so is the subject matter.

With the aid of Technicolor there are great crimson scenes of fire and brimstone in the steel mills and vast panoramas of mountain, lake and river. It is a saga of America reflective of the titanic energy, resources and power of men and metals.

Particularly good supporting playing by Ann Richards, as Mrs. Dangos, who knew a real man when she saw one; John Qualen, another man with a shovel, and Horace McNally, the son who could fight with his father.

Bracken Tops in Comedy Hit

By PEGGY DOYLE

Even madder and funnier than their "Miracle of Morgan's Creek" is "Hail the Conquering Hero," another bell-ringing honey starring Eddie Bracken and written and directed by Preston Sturges.

Eddie Bracken

Catch it at the Paramount or Fenway and laugh yourself into a frenzy of teary-eyed mirth over the breath-stopping dilemma of a phoney hero who eventually weighs 14 caret gold with the homefolks.

Sturges, whose past performances spell a litany of hilarious hits, has an incorrigible urge to bounce sacred cows off pedestals and let the chips fall where they may.

His latest lampoon is concerned with the adulation of returned heroes. It takes some doing to top his "Great McGinty," "Lady Eve" and "Miracle of Morgan's Creek," but Sturges has done it in "Hail the Conquering Hero" . . . with the help of Bracken and William Demarest, the swooning, stuttering hero and the pistol-packin' papa Kockenlocker of Morgan's Creek, and a grand cast.

Sturges has been orchided with such encomiums as "a Hollywood Voltaire" and "a Hollywood O. Henry" for this latest unrationed largesse of laughter. Us, all we can gasp, dolingly, with Joan Davis, at the prospect of Clark Gable around the corner, is "How I love that boy!!!"

The Bracken is currently playing a forlorn mailtown fellow, who has been discharged from the marines because of hay fever after only a month in service and is afraid to face his mother and the neighbors. He is doing a bit of elbow-bending, tells the barkeep to set 'em up for a group of marines who obviously are financially embarrassed.

It happens that the sergeant, played by William Demarest, once served under his father, who was a history-making marine. Almost before the unhappy guy knows what has happened, he has been buttoned up in his old marine uniform, his flat chest is blooming with war-medals and the six marines are boldly rushing him home for a hero's acclaim.

The town goes wild over its reluctant hero, burning the mortgage on his mother's home, banding to honor him with a statue, even offering him the mayoralty nomination.

Persistently balked by the well meaning marines in his attempts to tell all, the phony hero thwarts them by confessing everything publicly. In an instant, the old surge is on the platform pointing out to the townspeople that the ex-marine has just done the bravest thing a man could do and is a bonafide hero after all. And so he is unanimously acclaimed their mayor.

Bracken gives a show-stopping performance, and is ably seconded by Demarest's terrific sergeant and newcomer Freddie Steele's (the former boxing champion) Bugsy.

You'll hail the "Conquering Hero," too.

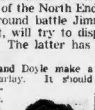
McDaniels, Doyle Make Winning Ring Parlay

By JACK CONWAY

THERE WILL BE a decided California touch to the Goodwin A. C. boxing show at the Garden tonight. Jimmy McDaniels, California welterweight, will clash with Billy Tordiglione of the North End in a 10-round tussle, while in another 10-round battle Jimmy Doyle, another California welterweight, will try to dispose of Henry Jordan of Atlantic City. The latter has taken the place of Leo Dulmaine.

McDaniels and Doyle make a good listic parlay. It should click in impressive style.

McDaniels, who recently came East, has done some successful boxing in New York rings. Ralph Zanfini and Providence was one of his victims. It is believed that McDaniels has too much class for the rugged Tordiglione. The latter has shown promise in some of his bouts. If he can make a creditable showing against McDaniels, he will raise his ring standing.



Jimmy Doyle

Doyle Classy Boxer

CALIFORNIANS contend that Doyle will eventually be ranked with the best welterweights in the world. He is only 20 years of age and keeps improving with each match.

Tony Palazolo, who used to live in Boston and for four years managed Ralph Doyle, brought Jimmy Doyle from the Coast. Tony has been making his home in Los Angeles and in San Francisco in recent years.

"I believe I have the best looking young welterweight in the country in Jimmy Doyle," said Tony with enthusiasm. "Doyle is a good boxer and hits from every angle. I believe he will make an instant hit with Boston and New England fans. I expect him to win from Jordan tonight."

B. C. Against Syracuse

THE BOSTON College football team will experience severe opposition when it opposes Syracuse at Fenway Park tomorrow afternoon. Syracuse has a good club and it is confident it will win from the Eagles.

Boston College has played some good football so far this season, and it should show improved form against Syracuse. There is considerable interest in the game, and it is expected that it will attract a fair crowd.

Dartmouth at Brown

IT WILL be a pleasant relief for Dartmouth to be playing Brown at Providence tomorrow rather than having Notre Dame as an opponent. The Big Green was out of the game when it played Notre Dame. It has had time to recover from its 64 to 0 defeat.

Garden Fight Card

MAIN BOUTS—10 ROUNDS

B. C., Syracuse Renew 20-Year Old Rivalry

By HUCK FINNEGAN

Boston College faces Syracuse at Fenway Park tomorrow, and we wonder how many in the audience will recall the first BC-Syracuse meeting of two decades back?

It was a momentous occasion with a pre-game build-up that only the roaring 20's could produce. BC's 1923 team had shown only to Red Dunn and Mal-quette; Syracuse, too, had lost only one game and had beaten Nebraska which had beaten Notre Dame's 1923 eleven.

The game took place in the Syracuse Bowl on Oct. 18, 1924. BC and Syracuse were undefeated in early season games. Maj. Cavanaugh was in his hey-day, his 1919 and 1920 victories over Yale still reverberating through the Towers on the Heights.

The BC squad was given a tremendous send-off at Trinity Place Station. Hundreds turned out to do them god-speed. Three special trains were reserved, two for rooters and band, one for alumni, both official and "subway." More than 1000 tickets were sold in Boston, and a goodly number of well-wishers went by train, automobile and "thumb" and quartered themselves in Hotel Onandaga. BC was a favorite.

This was the make-up of the squad that entrained for the game: Capt. Joe Koslowsky, Darling, Ward, Bill and Jack Cronin, Harrison, O'Connell, Donahue, Doyle, McManus, Larkin, Mckenney, McNamara, Murphy, Johnson, Elbery, Sullivan, Durant, Dwyer, Fitzgerald, Crean, Monczwicz, Calnan, O'Neal, Martin, O'Brien, Kobolinsky, Dunbar.

BC didn't remain a favorite long. It required only the play of the day: "The Syracuse backfield displayed a versatility that had Boston College running around in circles, confounding the Boston defense and playing havoc with any real attack that the Cavmen might have mustered on that score," the BC line displayed many weaknesses.

"Wally Bowman" was the Eagles' by-word. The Eagles did watch the intercollegiate indoor sprint champion, but Fullback McBride teamed them. He broke away for a 62-yard T. D. jaunt in the first period, later set up a field goal for Al Nemiroff by the he kicked the field goal (30 yards) and the final score was Syracuse 10, BC 0.

It was a heartbreaker for BC. The team was laden with veterans—Darling, Cronin, Doyle, Koslowsky, et al—and great things were expected of it. The boys rallied quickly, however, and defeated Lafayette, Holy Cross 34-7, Marquette 34-7, lost to Centenary and Mexico Farrell 10-9, defeated Vermont 33-7 before the climax with Dartmouth. Then it happened again! Cleo O'Donnell's Crusaders laced the Eagles 20-0 before 50,000 at Braves Field.

Incidentally, on the day Syracuse was drubbing BC, Harvard was beating Hilary Haag's HC team 12-6 with Al Miller starring, and Notre Dame's "Four Horsemen" of Stuhldreher, Crowley, Miller and Layden were running roughshod over Army 13-7. But Mahaney and Co. more than atoned for the licking at BC's expense. Mahaney himself scoring one TD, Wallis 2, Kittredge and McMahon the other two, and they kicked three points after.

Record Duck Flight Wings Toward U.S.

By FRITZ HOWELL

The "duckiest" shooting season in two decades is winging its way toward U. S. nimrods. Some 140,000,000 waterfowl, biggest crop in 20 years, are expected in the States next week from Canada's duck factory, beating the big north-of-the-border freeze by a few days.

Ducks Unlimited, the sportsman-supported organization which aids and abets the breeding of ducks in 1,200,000 acres of Dominion territory, announced today through Executive Secretary Ray Benson that the early flight of teal, pintails and mallards was already on its way and that some shooting has been heard in border states, where the season opened a month ago.

But the heavy firing—and the good eating—are still to come in the form of northern mallards, bluebills and canvasbacks, along with the huge geese known to the trade as "honkers."

Last year, Benson disclosed, the waterfowl flight consisted of 125,000,000. About 16,000,000 fell before shotguns of 1,250,000 marksmen. That means that for every one killed seven others (including the ones at which you fired) winged on to winter in the southland.

This year's estimate of 140,000,000 ducks is 100,000,000 above that of the 1935-37 period, when hunting seasons were for 30 days. This year the shooters will bang away for 80 days. Ducks Unlimited, credited with much of the growth in duck population through its breeding ground restoration and management program, has produced ducks at a cost of about 3 cents each, Benson said.

In the seven years it has operated, the nonprofit group has contributed $960,000, received from sportsmen in voluntary gifts, to increase production on the breeding grounds. Last year 31,000 members contributed $279,000.

Through the use of bands placed on ducks, 1684 of which were shot last year, Ducks Unlimited has figured the line of flight and final landing spots of ducks from the various breeding grounds. The result is that several duck-hunting groups, especially in Louisiana, Illinois, Maryland, California, Missouri, Texas and Minnesota, have financed the Canadian "factories" from which their ducks come.

The southern season opens Nov. 2 and runs through Jan. 2. In the North the season opened Sept. 20, and closes Dec. 8, but up to now the shooting has been mostly on a "just wait until next week" basis.

Clapper Named Bruins Pilot

By BILL GRIMES

Mgr. Art Ross of the Bruins forwards word from the training center, Quebec City, that Dit Clapper has been appointed player-coach of the Boston Bruins; that Jack Crawford, the sturdy defense star, is assistant coach and Bill Cowley, the dashing center, once more in magnificent form, is captain of the Hub outfit.

The Bruins leave today for Montreal where on tomorrow night they open their season against the Canadiens.

The Bruins, to date, have made no claims. They are taking the opening of the season in stride. Other teams, notably the Maple Leafs and Canadiens, actually have that Stanley Cup already won.

It doesn't require more than ordinary hockey intelligence to realize that Ross has a Bruin team with great potentialities. It has a great defense, and this, after all, is the point from which all teams are judged and measured.

The Bruins may be tipped over in their opener against the Flying Frenchmen tomorrow night, but those birds will know they have been in a hockey game after Ross' stalwarts on defense smack down a few of them.

Schott Wins His 29th Straight Bout

Freddy Schott, 206, a very promising young heavyweight from Paterson, N. J., ran his winning streak to 29 straight when he defeated Iron Man Earl Louman, 210½, of Detroit, in the eight-round feature of an all-star card staged by the Callahan A. C., at Mechanics Building last night, before a gathering of 2057 that paid a net of $2187.

Johnny Ryan, 151½, Detroit, repeated his triumph of a week ago over Gene Boulden, 149, Providence, in the eight-round semi-final. This time Ryan, who was saved by the bell in the last fight, boxed the entire way and did an artistic job on Boulden, who never came close this time.

Baker Signed, Red Sox Admit

By FRED HOEY

The veil of secrecy which has surrounded official news releases, if any, from the Red Sox office for the past year finally has been punctured in the admission by that office that Del Baker, former Detroit manager, and more recently coach of the Cleveland Indians, had been signed as coach of Tom Yawkey's club.

Meanwhile Coaches Bill Burwell and Frank Shellenback have resigned their Red Sox positions.

Just 10 days ago the Red Sox office announced that the report that Del Baker was to join the Sox organization as coach was without foundation, in fact was mere fantasy.

The fact that Shellenback and Burwell have been canned is no news. The young pitchers on the Red Sox staff were up in arms over the over-coaching they were getting from so many old-time experts.

The Red Sox office yesterday actually announced that Catcher Roy Partee had been inducted into the armed service.

These two Red Sox announcements of yesterday established a war record for double-headers for one day from that usually secretive office.

Trojans Fear Close Games

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27 (AP)—The University of Southern California hopes its football team stays out of close games. At the last check the Trojans had converted only one extra point in more than 20 tries. Invariably the ball sailed to the left, like a hooked golf shot.

He had the odd idea somebody was behind him . . .

"Give me that key," he said, hot with rage.

He looked down and saw her neatly-parted hair . . .

DON read the note Helen had left for him next morning. "The coffee is made. Just warm it up. And there are eggs in the ice-box. Holy Love comes in at 10:30 but just chase her away if she bothers you. Love.—H."

Eggs. He couldn't imagine anything more sickening. He heard Holy Love moving around. That meant it was maybe around 11. That meant Wick soon would be home. The week-end was over.

He had been sleeping twelve hours and maybe more. He stood up. It wasn't too good. He felt strong but uncertain. He went to the kitchen.

Sitting at the table drinking the hot coffee, he suddenly had the odd idea that somebody was standing behind him, towering above and in back of his head. He knew better but he looked around. These were not hallucinations. He wondered if they might not be something worse.

The pressure spurred him to map his plans. Speed was what counted today. He tried the door to the hall closet. It was locked. Helen had seen to that. She never had any great supply but one bottle would have been enough. He called, "Holy? Would you open the hall closet for me?"

"Sorry, Mist' Birnam. I don't have no key."

She was a liar, of course, but what could he do about it? He got dressed, thinking deliberately of his objective. He must get home into bed before Wick returned.

He sprang up, hearing Holy Love in the hall. He saw her with a vacuum cleaner. "Give me that key," he said. "Where'd you get the cleaner from?"

"From the kitchen. I don't have no key to the closet."

Then began an idiotic duel over the hall-closet. Every time he heard her step in the hall, he crossed into the kitchen. But he never caught her. He was hot with rage. He could have killed her without a thought.

She was on her knees in front of the fireplace when he came into the living room. She was sweeping up the ashes of the night before. His eye fell on the bronze Romulus and Remus on the mantel.

His hand went out for it.
